

Figure 1. The map shows the distribution of a variable across the United States. The variable is represented by a color scale from 0 to 100. The map shows high values (red and orange) in the Northeast, Midwest, and parts of the South. Low values (dark blue) are seen in the West and parts of the South. The map is titled "Figure 1" in the top right corner.